

One of the things that Heather Laughter knows for sure is that life happens FOR us, not TO us. When people hear that she had a pretty rough upbringing and was a foster child, they seem astonished that she is a generally happy person. Those reactions started her thinking that maybe she could figure out a way to assist others to discover the ability to uncover their own joy, inspiration and purpose, or help them to increase their business success many times over.

Having nearly 30 years of experience in the Sales / Management / Entrepreneurial / Speaking / Consulting arenas, she also concluded that she was most fulfilled when she was motivating and inspiring others to reach greater levels of success. She is passionate and uniquely qualified to lead you to greater sales, greater success, greater relationships, greater happiness, greater freedom, greater business, and greater career choices and can guide you through the process to whichever level YOU wish to develop.

“Since meeting with Heather, my life has changed for the better. She has given me the tools to turn my life around and as a result, I am more positive and have I have a more optimistic outlook for the future. She has given me hope.”
